

NATAN HEBER

Born 1975 in United Kingdom

Works and lives in London, United Kingdom

Natan Heber's paintings are poetic and often metaphorical, instigating the imagination between the audience and artist by objectifying emotions and exploring the duality that develops through different interpretations. His paintings directly respond to the surrounding environment and he uses everyday experiences as a starting point. Often these are framed instances that would go unnoticed in their original context. With a conceptual approach, he wants to amplify the astonishment of the spectator by creating compositions or settings that generate conceptual images that leave traces and balances on the edge of recognition and alienation.

Heber's journey as an artist is defined by passion, dedication, and a relentless pursuit of an insatiable quest for a distinctive artistic expression. Before becoming a full-time artist, Heber worked on several projects as an illustrator and concept designer for movies, photography projects, the music sector, books and magazines. With works showcased across Europe, America and Asia, his versatility as an illustrator earned him an IMDb award for best poster for a short film in Las Vegas, a testament to his ability to transcend artistic boundaries. His most recent endeavour involved contributing to a Netflix series, "The Diplomat," and his paintings have graced exhibitions in Hong Kong, Tokyo, and London.

Heber's exquisite art results from his in-depth exploration of classical art and the profound study of grand masters' paintings. Like Picasso, Heber's deep understanding of fine art serves as the foundation for his current work. Echoing Picasso's sentiment that "It took me four years to paint like Raphael, but a lifetime to paint like a child," Heber embraces a style honed since childhood and now uses these techniques in favour of his current artistic phase.
